AGENCY FOR
CLINICAL INNOVATION

The Agency for Clinical Innovation (ACI) is the lead agency for innovation in clinical care.

We bring consumers, clinicians and healthcare managers together to support the design, assessment and implementation of clinical innovations across the NSW public health system to change the way that care is delivered.

The ACI's clinical networks, institutes and taskforces are chaired by senior clinicians and consumers who have a keen interest and track record in innovative clinical care.

We also work closely with the Ministry of Health and the four other pillars of NSW Health to pilot, scale and spread solutions to healthcare system-wide challenges. We seek to improve the care and outcomes for patients by re-designing and transforming the NSW public health system.

Our innovations are:

- person-centred
- clinically-led
- evidence-based
- value-driven.

About the cover image

Title: 'Woven ways'

Artist: Jessica Birk

Jessica is a proud descendant of the Yaegl people of the Northern Rivers of NSW. She was born and grew up within Northern Sydney and harbours a deep love and respect for this this land. Her visual storytelling defines her colourful and layered artworks, and these works explore themes of place and belonging, cultural identity and landscape.

'Woven ways' begins with a deep yellow background representative of a starting point and visual Acknowledgement of Country. Textures and stylised imagery reference the rock platforms found all over North Sydney. Its warm golden hues pay homage to the Cammeraygal people and the Garigal people, the traditional owners of Northern Sydney and their descendants; while the black provides contrast and represents the catalyst for change.

Large fluid spaces of stained colour lined by blue-grey and white weave across the canvas panels. The white outline defines a space, representing the organisation and outlying service provision. This space develops deeper purple hues only when overlapping the blue grey hues of the space representing the cultural landscape of Indigenous Australia. These transitions of colour represent the collaboration, reciprocity and cultural understanding needed to achieve significant progress. The overlap of these spaces also represents the end goal, the cultural safety and genuine commitment needed, to bridge and close the gap between these two spaces.

Stylised designs of animals and traditional tools are scattered across each of the panels. They mimic the same transition of colour and visual metaphor when passing through the large overlapping spaces. Their various designs representing the diversity of Australia of animals and culture.

Encircling the whole image are winding goanna tracks, a visual metaphor for the journey and the many ways it winds before reaching its end. Coloured gold, they represent the strength gained through genuine partnerships and commitment.

When viewed as a whole, 'Woven ways' is an artwork that responds visually to themes of collaboration, cultural safety and the metaphorical challenges and solutions that must be negotiated to achieve positive health outcomes for all parties involved.

We acknowledge the input of the ACI staff who contributed to the vision and development of this artwork.

Acknowledgement of Country

The Agency for Clinical Innovation (ACI) acknowledges that we are located on the lands of the Cammeraygal People of the Eora Nation, and our staff work across the lands of many Aboriginal Nations. We pay our respects to Elders past and present and to all Aboriginal people and communities of today.

Introduction

The ACI is committed to workforce diversity, increasing the representation of Aboriginal employees through appropriate recruitment and retention and strategies, providing career development opportunities, and ultimately ensuring that we become an organisation which demonstrates a high level of cultural competence within our staff and the work we do.

This strategy sets out the key initiatives to be implemented across the ACI over the period 2019 to 2025 with an interim review to be undertaken in 2022.

This strategy is acknowledged to be 'fluid' due to the potential changes to state level plans and strategic frameworks, for example NSW Health Good Health – Great Jobs Aboriginal Workforce Strategic Framework 2016 – 2020 PD2016_053 will be revised and is expected to be relaunched in late 2020. This strategy will be updated as appropriate to ensure it meets any newly established targets.

Key priorities

This strategy focuses on four key priorities:

1. Attract Aboriginal staff
2. Retain Aboriginal staff
3. Support career development and progression for Aboriginal staff
4. Improve cultural competency in the workplace.

Development of this strategy has involved consultation with:

- Aboriginal staff at the ACI
- ACI Executive
- ACI Cultural Competency Working Group
- Aboriginal Workforce Unit, HealthShare
- Aboriginal Workforce Unit, NSW Ministry of Health
- Aboriginal Strategic Leadership Group.

Key priority 1: Attract Aboriginal staff

The ACI is committed to attracting Aboriginal staff to our workplace across a wider range of positions. Many Aboriginal staff want to work in roles that provide services to Aboriginal people and communities. However, the ACI recognises that Aboriginal health workers also want opportunities to contribute in other roles that do not specifically work in Aboriginal communities.

Through the use of additional advertising strategies detailed in NSW Health's online resource *Stepping Up*¹ and our working relationships at the local Aboriginal community level, the ACI will seek to maximise applications from Aboriginal people and attract suitable candidates to a range of roles. Referrals from Aboriginal staff and the Aboriginal community are an important source of talent, and when pursued, can assist in building trust and empowerment.²

Outcome: Increase Aboriginal staff representation across a wider range³ of positions at the ACI, using recruitment practices that maximise the use of our networks and relationships as well as those that are appropriate to, and for, Aboriginal people.

Key priority 2: Retain Aboriginal staff

The ACI is committed to retaining Aboriginal staff in our workplace. Possible drivers and barriers to retention of Aboriginal staff includes: the level of cultural competence within the workplace, the level of cultural safety in working with other Aboriginal staff, career progression and flexibility to accommodate family and community responsibilities. A better understanding of the drivers and barriers of retention of Aboriginal staff in our workplace is needed in order to devise specific strategies that address the issues.

Cultural safety and peer support at the ACI is encouraged through participation in Aboriginal staff networks and attendance at events to facilitate Aboriginal staff networks, hosted by NSW Health and the NSW public sector.

Outcome: Develop effective responses to issues that impact the retention of Aboriginal staff at the ACI.

Key priority 3: Support career development and progression for Aboriginal staff

The ACI is committed to providing learning and development opportunities to support the continuing professional development of its Aboriginal staff.

Our Aboriginal staff are encouraged to identify and complete learning and development opportunities that will enhance performance in their current role, and develop capabilities for professional growth and career opportunities through the Professional Development Framework.

Aboriginal staff are under-represented in senior management and executive roles across the public sector.⁴ The ACI can assist in building leadership capability in the Aboriginal health workforce by continuing to support and encourage our current and future Aboriginal workforce managers and leaders to participate in leadership and development programs offered by the NSW public sector, and by improving pathways into these roles.

Outcome: Support Aboriginal staff to develop their capabilities and build leadership capacity.

Key priority 4: Improve cultural capability in the workplace

Providing a culturally safe workplace is seen as a key driver and barrier to retention of Aboriginal staff. The ACI incorporates Aboriginal cultural practises and protocols in official meetings and events, displays the Aboriginal flag, incorporates Aboriginal art in our publications, and acknowledges and promotes key Aboriginal community events (such as NAIDOC Week).

The ACI is making progress to improve the cultural capability of our workplace and all staff through a series of initiatives supported by the People & Culture team and the Cultural Competency Working Group.

Outcome: A workplace that understands and respects Aboriginal cultures, and celebrates and values cultural differences.
