

Is your wound bothering you?

Your healthcare team will ask you to complete a survey about your wound during the last week. The survey is called WOUND-Q®.

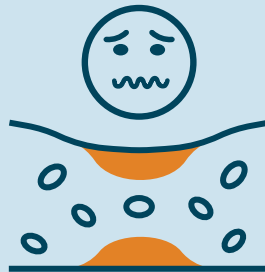

It will take about 5-10 minutes.

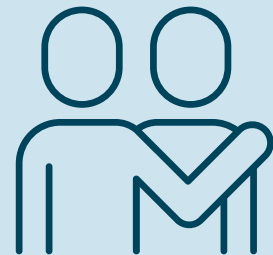

They will talk to you about your answers and what treatment might help you. The survey will ask:

How your wound looks

If your wound is giving you pain and making you uncomfortable

How your wound affects your social life and close relationships

Whether your wound is draining any liquid

If your wound smells

The survey will ask you to give ratings for each question. Think about the past week for your answers.

Your healthcare team will send you the survey by email or SMS or you can complete it at your appointment.

For more information about completing patient surveys, visit this fact sheet:

